In a first, M&M receives PLI eligibility certificate

This opens doors for M&M to get subsidy; TaMo files plea for flagship Tiago EV

NITIN KUMAR
New Delhi, 28 June

The Mumbai-headquartered Mahindra & Mahindra (M&M) becomes first firm to receive the eligibility certificate under the ₹25,938 crore production-linked incentive scheme for automobiles (auto PLI), thereby opening the door to receiving subsidies.

The automotive (auto) industry argued that eligible firms under the scheme missed the opportunity to claim incentives from the budgeted ₹604 crore for 2022-2023 due to delay in the release of standard operating procedures (SOPs). However, ministry officials said that original equipment manufacturers (OEMs) did not fulfil the criteria laid down under the previous guidelines of the scheme, which were similar to the Faster Adoption and Manufacturing of Electric (and Hybrid) Vehicles in India (FAME-II) guidelines.

The certification for M&M comes at a time when the auto industry is contesting the government over its delay in releasing the SOPs for the scheme.

The Automotive Research Association of India, a testing agency under the Ministry of Heavy Industries, awarded the eligibility certificate to M&M on Wednesday. "With this, the automotive journey of manufacturing excellence on India soil has started," said a senior ministry official.

The awarded certificate is for M&M's three-wheeler category vehicle. "We are delighted and grateful to receive the first eligibility certificate under the auto PLI scheme. It is testament to our commitment towards domestic value addition for advanced automotive technology and our continued pursuit towards Make in India," tweeted Suman Mishra, chief executive officer, Mahindra Last Mile Mobility.

All the selected 85 OEMs will have to take the eligibility certificate from testing agencies under the ministry before claiming incentives under the scheme.

The testing agency has also received an application from Tata Motors for an eligibility certificate for its flagship Tiago Electric, another government official told.

The scheme came into existence in September 2021. From April 1, 2022, incentives were to be given to OEMs on the determined sales value of advanced automotive technology (AAT) products (vehicles and components) made in India only if they met the minimum 50 per cent domestic value addition (DVA) criterion. However, the government came up with a set of SOPs only in April 2023.

"We didn't receive any complete application from auto manufacturers," said a senior ministry official. "The new SOP norms were brought only after we found cases of rampant violation in adherence to the DVA rules under FAME II."

The Society of Indian Automobile Manufacturers, an industry lobby group, reached out to the ministry last month, seeking the release of incentive funds pending from April 2022. The government, however, according to officials, will release subsidies only from the date automakers get their vehicles certified.

While the auto industry fears missing out on the last year's subsidy, government officials working on the scheme say that nothing is missed as the incentives are based on incremental sales, and if firms are not able to utilise the fund in a year, it is carried forward to the next and can be utilised in that year.

The PLI scheme for the auto sector was launched by the Indian government to boost domestic manufacturing and attract investment in the auto industry.

MMR, Pune may push housing sales to record high in Apr-Jun

RAGHAV AGGARWAL
New Delhi, 28 June

Housing sales in the top seven cities of India in the ongoing quarter are likely to hit an all-time high of 115,100 units, property consultancy Anarock said on Wednesday. Despite higher home loan rates and global headwinds, this figure will be 36 per cent higher than 84,940 units sold in the same quarter last year.

Anarock has factored in the average sales velocity in these cities to arrive at the quarterly number.

The sales were pushed higher by Mumbai Metropolitan Region (MMR) and Pune as these were the only two cities that will see a rise in housing sales as compared to the previous quarter.

According to the data released by Anarock, a total of 38,090 units are likely to be sold in MMR, 10 per cent higher than 34,690 units last year. With a sales figure of 20,680 units, Pune is expected to see a 4 per cent rise over 19,920 units last year.

Together Pune and MMR may account for 51 per cent of the total housing sales in the top seven cities.

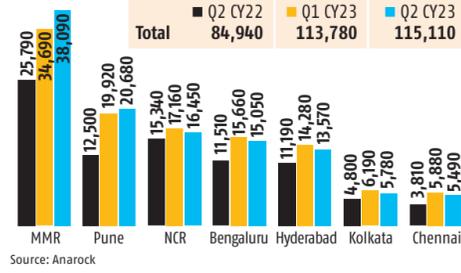

All other cities, National Capital Region (NCR), Bengaluru, Hyderabad, Chennai and Kolkata, are expected to see a quarter-on-quarter (QoQ) fall in sales.

Earlier, the peak was reached in the quarter that ended on March 31 this year with a sale of 113,780 units.

"The housing market is yet to feel the impact of the home loan rate hike early this year, and of the global economic headwinds. It continues to be on a roll with the momentum remaining strong even in the second quarter of the calendar year 2023," said Anuj Puri, chairman of Anarock Group.

The data further showed that on a year-on-year (YoY) basis, all the cities would see a jump in sales, the highest (65 per cent) being in Pune. It will be followed by a 48 per cent rise in MMR and 44 per cent in Chennai. NCR will be the only city to see single-digit growth in sales at 7 per cent.

On inflation, Anarock's data showed that the average property prices across the top 7 cities would increase in the range of 6 to 10 per cent in the June quarter compared to the same quarter last year.

This is "mainly due to increase in the prices of construction raw materials and overall rise in demand". The highest jump in housing prices, at 10 per cent, was seen in Hyderabad. The price in the city stands at Rs 4,980 per square foot.

The data also saw a sharp 25 per cent jump in the supply of houses in these seven cities.

Mobile user base drops by 0.8 mn in Apr

The number of mobile phone connections in India fell by 0.8 million in April this year, after an increase of 1.96 million in March, the highest in nine months, the latest data from Trai showed.

In past 12 months, the number of wireless (mobile phone) subscriptions fell on six occasions. In April, urban areas lost 0.8 million mobile users, in a stark contrast to the previous month when 1.17 million new connections went online in cities. The number of connections in rural areas rose by a marginal 0.1 million in April, after a rise of 0.7 million in March.

Reliance Jio continued to cement its lead in the Indian telecom market, gaining 3 million new users in April, similar to March. Bharti Airtel's subscriber count also rose, by just 76,328, in April, down from 1.03 million additions in March. Vodafone Idea, on the other hand, lost 2.9 million subscribers in April.

Vedanta taps into display business with Y J Chen as CEO

SANKALP PHARTIYAL
28 June

The newly appointed chief executive officer (CEO) of Vedanta Resources untried display business is seeking to hire global talent to build and run a $4 billion factory in western India.

YJ Chen (pictured), who previously worked at Chinese display maker HKC, said the display venture will soon begin recruiting from South Korea, Taiwan, Japan and other regions to set up a liquid crystal display panel fabrication unit in India. The factory will create as many as 3,500 direct jobs, he said. "We need a lot of technicians, very talented people," Chen, who has 23 years of experience in the display industry, said in an interview. "That's the biggest challenge — people." Even as it's suffering from a heavy debt load, billionaire Anil Agarwal's metals and mining conglomerate is expanding in electronics components to take advantage of India's push to become a technology manufacturing hub. The display business is separate from Vedanta's struggling chip venture and may find an easier path to success as it's a less technically demanding undertaking.

Vedanta, which has partnered with Foxconn Group affiliate Innolux for the display business, plans to manufacture glass and assemble LCD panels at its new factory. The unit could start production toward the end of 2025 if it gets crucial funding from the government, Chen said. Modi has pledged $10 billion to woo chip and display makers to India, promising his administration will bear half the cost of setting up all semiconductor and display fabrication sites. While Vedanta's chip plans are yet to get government backing, its display business could find it easier to win state incentives with key tech partnerships in place. Vedanta also owns Japan-based AvanStrate, which makes layers used in

LCD panels. With its display push, Vedanta is seeking to grab a slice of India's display market, which it expects to grow to an annual $30 billion over the next seven years. It will have to compete with inexpensive Chinese LCDs and develop newer displays for long-term success. "We need to build our own supply chain in India," Chen said. "We will focus on new designs to lower costs, and compete with the Chinese." BLOOMBERG
